LETICIA QUINTERO

"It's rewarding to discover that one person really can make a difference, that you can motivate people to do something they never thought they'd do."

As one of the Mount's "Student Ambassadors," Leticia Quintero has been working at area high schools to help encourage students to continue their education. "It's a big world for them, a world of possibility — and what they can accomplish goes way beyond what they may think their limits are."

Quintero is an English major now in her junior year. Recently awarded a Rockefeller Brothers Fellowship for minority students entering the teaching profession, Quintero plans to pursue a master's degree and teach high school. "Education leads students along a path away from feelings of helplessness or hopelessness.

"Being a Student Ambassador helped me put it all together — who I am, and what I want to do with my life. One day, out of the blue, a student I had counseled came up to me and said, 'You helped me apply, and I was accepted to college — thank you!' It was the greatest feeling in the world."

JEAN DAY

"Volunteering takes you beyond the campus, and it's so important for students to have that broader perspective."

Spending time at a downtown detention center, Jean Day is getting a glimpse at lives very different from her own. "I went into the juvenile detention centers thinking 'what can I say?' These kids had committed crimes that were almost routine to them, but unthinkable to me. To realize what their growing-up is like and the issues they are facing is an awakening experience."

Day, a senior majoring in psychology, was honored with the Estelle Doheny Award upon graduating from the associate degree program at Doheny.

"The environment at Doheny helped me by consistent encouragement. College opened up so many doors for me — the next thing I knew, I was trying to do the same thing for other kids." For two years, Day has been an integral part of the College Urban Fellows program, which engages college students with K-12 schools and community organizations. Day has served both as a program coordinator, and as a facilitator for seventh and eighth grade students at Rosemead Middle School, who then tutor first and second graders.

She plans to pursue a graduate degree in clinical psychology after earning her bachelor's from MSMC in May '97.

COLLEEN O'SHAUGHNESSEY

"I was really given a second chance — and I wanted to share it, and give back something of what I was given."

As she glides across the worn floorboards of the small auditorium, a constellation of more than a dozen students follows her. All of them — whether a shy seven-year-old with long braids, or a gangly teenage boy in an oversized t-shirt — concentrate on following the moves of the trim blond as she leads the students in a series of dance steps.

Colleen O'Shaughnessey had a taste of Broadway before knee surgery pushed her into the wings while she was touring in a revival of Oklahoma. A dancer practically from the time she could stand, she was told by her doctors that she would almost certainly never perform again. "Dancing isn't what I do, it's who I am," O'Shaughnessey says. "That was like telling me I couldn't be myself."

After five months in a wheelchair, she was walking and planning to dance a little — although not professionally. She went back to college, majoring in biology at Mount St. Mary's in preparation for graduate work in physical therapy. But a serendipitous volunteer experience resulted in a radical change of course.

"I taught dance in some affluent areas of L.A., and enjoyed it, but something was missing," O'Shaughnessey says. One day Gail Gresser, director of Campus Ministry at Chalon, handed her an L.A. Times article about a remarkable school in the Pico-Union district called St. Thomas. O'Shaughnessey volunteered there in after-school hours; in just a couple of years, her one-woman dance program expanded to classes at three ability levels, and full-blown productions of musicals — in 1995, Annie, and this year, Godspell. "It's so great to see how much this means to these kids, who might never have the chance to take a dance class, and to their parents."

O'Shaughnessey plans to teach full-time at a downtown-area school after graduation.

Alumnae Volunteers

We are grateful to those alumnae who have given the gift of time to the College — who have volunteered for FANS (Friends and Alumnae Network), the phonathon, MVP (The Mount Volunteer Program), organized chapter or reunion events, represented MSMC at inaugurations and the CCD Congress, spoken at career panels and assisted at events for students, or served on an alumnae committee.

VICKY YAMAMOTO

"The more I do, the more I realize how much I've learned from the community, and from developing a sense of responsibility to my community."

How do we define the concept of community? The meaning of the word has been translated into the language of action by Vicky Yamamoto, a Doheny sophomore. Born in Los Angeles, Yamamoto moved to Hakodate, Japan, as a baby, remaining there until she was eight years old. When she returned to the United States, she studied at Santa Monica's Hitotsubashi Academy, taking all her classes in Japanese but studying English intensively.

Yamamoto has been very involved with Doheny-based Campus Ministry programs, including sandwich-making for the homeless and the annual "Safe and Sane Halloween" that draws more than 1,000 neighborhood children to the campus for games and treats.

"I got involved in community activities at first because I wanted to make friends and improve my English skills," she explains. "But I discovered that volunteering was a very good experience for all students. It is wonderful to feel that you are doing something to help solve problems." Yamamoto is also taking part in a community clean-up effort, and plans to participate in the annual walks to raise money to eradicate hunger and AIDS. She is the vice president of the Ecology Club, which educates students about the importance of recycling.

Next year Yamamoto will transfer to the baccalaureate program at Chalon. Majoring in biological sciences is the first step toward realizing her dream of attending medical school and becoming a surgeon.

NOHELIA CANALES

"In our society, the values of independence and individualism permeate everything — but we are a community, and anything that happens to one person will eventually affect someone else. In order to take care of yourself, you have to take care of others."

Nohelia Canales conceived of Women Advocates for Knowledge and Empowerment (WAKE) after she and two other Mount students attended a week-long leadership program at Rutgers University. That was the summer after her sophomore year; Canales, now a senior, has used the new student organization to orchestrate a variety of special lectures and events. "We've been trying to find innovative ways to bring women together — on campus and off — to help students discover what they care most about," Canales explains.

Last November, Canales and other WAKE members were invited to attend the California State Legislators Conference in San Diego, where they participated in strategy sessions focusing on how to get more women to run for political office — especially women of color.

The 21-year-old is majoring in the dizzying combination of biological sciences and philosophy. She is a participant in the Minority Access to Research Careers program, funded through the National Institutes for Health, and has collaborated with Sister Annette Bower on research exploring the impact of hormone therapy on blood pressure.

"I want to be a physician, working to treat gynecological cancers," she says. "I also want to be involved in helping shape public policy about health care. We have to take responsibility for how our policies affect other people — we can't just live in a bubble."

JENNIFER ALLANDE

"When people say, 'I don't have time to volunteer,' I just tell them that it's a unique satisfaction that they can't get from anything else."

For Jennifer Allande, the benefits of community service are twofold — giving her as much as she seeks to give others. "Working with Campus Ministry keeps me in tune," says the sophomore early childhood education major. "It feels good to be able to talk to kids at juvenile hall and really hear them out — since I'm bilingual, that helps."

Allande is also one in a group of Doheny students who regularly prepares a complete menu on campus, and serves it to the 15 to 20 men who are staying at the nearby St. Vincent's shelter while they look for work. "We sit and eat with them, and talk, then bring everything back to campus to clean up."

As president of the Early Childhood Education Club, Allande coordinated the celebration of April's National Week of the Young Child. The main event was a "trike-a-thon" to support the Child Development Center on the Doheny campus, featuring tykes on trikes speeding around the Doheny mansion.

"My mother had her own day care center at home for 17 years. I grew up with children all around, and I was always the one who helped my mother," says Allande, who plans to pursue a master's in education. "I've always wanted to have a future that involves children."

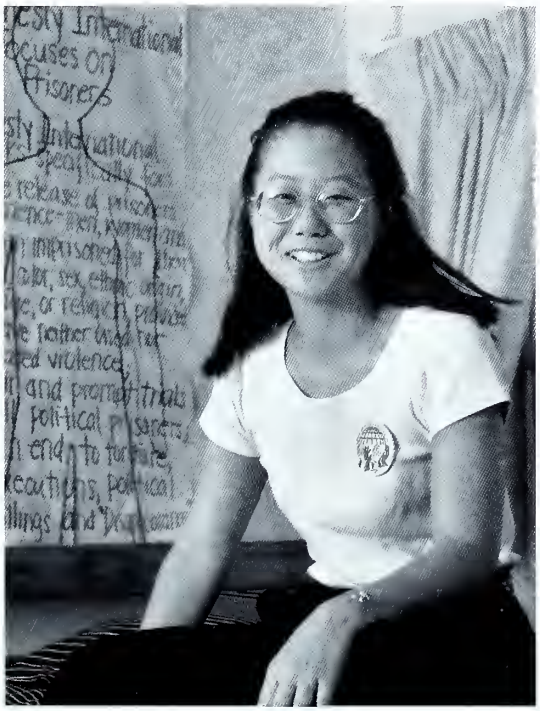
BERNADETTE LEE

"I wondered if students on campus were so over committed that it would be hard to connect with what's going on in other parts of the world, places that seem so remote. Can someone living in L.A. really help someone being tortured in Bangladesh?"

In less than three years, Bernadette Lee has started an Amnesty International chapter at Mount St. Mary's, worked in Campus Ministry as a confirmation coordinator for students being fully initiated into the Catholic Church, served as vice president of the Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) chapter and participated in their outreach efforts, and maintained excellent grades in her combined major of English and business administration. (Did we mention she has also been a contributor to the school newspaper?) In her spare time, she is launching a Mount literary magazine.



"Students need an outlet for their voices, a forum to share their experiences. We'll publish poetry, short stories, personal essays, one-act plays, photographs, illustrations," Lee says. A desire to help students find their voices provides some of the impetus for her work with Amnesty International. "If we let people know about injustices, then they will act."

With SIFE, Lee has reached out to the wider world by running resumé workshops for residents of a homeless shelter, many of whom have extensive education or professional backgrounds but have fallen upon hard times for a variety of reasons. For Lee, community service is both a political and personal mission. She plans on graduate study in business law and public policy, but serving as an advocate also has a profound spiritual dimension. "It's all a learning process," says Lee, who was confirmed on the Chalon campus during her freshman year. "I learned that being a Catholic means actively spreading God's word," she says.

The annual fund year reported in this issue runs from July 1, 1994, to June 30, 1995. All gifts received after July 1, 1995 will be acknowledged in the next honor roll. Please be assured that your support means a great deal to all of us at Mount St. Mary's College.

The Institutional Advancement staff has worked hard to avoid errors and omissions. With a report of this kind, however, mistakes can and do occur. We apologize for any oversight or errors and would appreciate being informed of such mistakes.

Classics

'32 Eileen Nason Rhyner is busy with her 1941 classic Cadillacs, community service, and researching family history with help from the Los Californianos Society.

'38 Retired and enjoying traveling, Kathleen McGrath Kappner is also a great-grandmother.

'39 Margaret Moran still enjoys art lessons, volunteers at Daniel Freeman Hospital, and traveled to South Bend for the USC-Notre Dame game.

'42 Alaska was the setting this summer for a cruise and Amtrak trip for Yvonne Wightman Whitley, together with her husband and two granddaughters. Yvonne and her husband Ed also celebrated their 53rd anniversary on International Marriage Celebration Day.

'45 While working part-time as the Coordinator of the Domestic Violence Treatment Program for Palomar Family Counseling in Escondido, Margaret Miller Edwards also traveled to Europe with her husband, daughter, and son-in-law. Vincentia Ginevra Lesko is now the happy grandmother of 13!

'47 Helen Connelly O'Callaghan lives in Green Lake, WI, but still has a home in Chatsworth. She and her husband are just "kicking back" for now!

'48 In 1995, Phyllis Kirby Jones enjoyed a wonderful cruise to the Caribbean and through the Panama Canal, and also celebrated her 45th wedding anniversary.

'50 Gloria Putman Stoica toured many of the national parks last summer, and also attended the 45th reunion of her class in October.

'53 Now working with the Chula Vista Laubach Literacy Center, Ana Maria Cota MacFarland has received official certification as a tutor trainer for the California Literacy Center.

'55 Nancy Galt Haynoski celebrated her 40th anniversary with her children and a trip to Thailand. Nancy is also working on a master's degree in English.

'56 Praised for her work in education, local government, and civil rights, Thelma Garcia Buchholdt has been named by the governor of Alaska as director of the state office of Equal Employment Opportunity. After eight years of retirement, Regina Mason Fitzgerald took a tax preparation class and last year worked preparing tax returns for H&R Block. Regina says it was quite a fascinating challenge.

'58 Maria Alicia Martinez retired in February after 37 years as a teacher with the Los Angeles Unified School District, and is now looking forward to traveling.

'59 Claire Roach attended the "Catholics in Media" awards banquet at the Beverly Hilton which featured a talk by Cardinal Mahony.

'61 After spending her entire life in California, her husband's job necessitated a move to Texas for Ann Duerr Regan. It was difficult to leave her children and grandchildren.

'62 Violet Craemer Devoe and her husband are training their two sons, an engineer and an architect, to take over their business, Presideo Components. Their daughter continues her career as a pediatric endocrinologist.

'63 This past September, Nance Slattery joined classmates Kate Earnhart, Margaret Potter Eckert, Judy Harris Kleinberg, Jodi Mullins Radovcich, and Barbara Buckman at Pat Thompson Sando's home in San Martin, CA. The weekend get-together has become a much-anticipated annual event.

Gothering at a luncheon in hanor of the Maunt's Golden Graduates and members af the Heritage Society are: seoted L to R, Marie Teresi Preisler '41, Corinne Cunningham '51, Violo Corbett, Erika Orth Owens '50. Standing, Nanette Teresi Lorrinaga '48, Beatrice Teresi Stathatas '44, and Virginia Sunseri Giacamelli '42.

'64 Eileen Miller has completed 25 years with the Ventura County Library Services Agency, working in children's, young adult, business, public and support services, and supervision and administration. She thanks her Mount education for encouraging her to help other people.

'66 The Lakeview Museum is the happy recipient of much of Norina Cartusciello Sinclair's time; she serves on the Board of Directors, chairs the Education Committee, and is the Chairman of the Muse Board. Norina also teaches a few art classes during the year.

'67 Ann Hohman Brinton will complete an MSN with a specialty in gerontology in May. Susan Cain Tellem continues as president of Tellem, Inc., specializing in health care PR. Her company also has a pet health division, and several animal programs in development with MTA Films, Inc.

'69 Having retired as a Colonel from the Army Nurse Corps after 27 1/2 years of active duty, Valerie Payne Biskey is now a consultant to a company bidding on a six-state managed care project. Valerie has also moved to Augusta, GA, and loves the South.

'70 After a long absence from nursing, Barbara Rice Waterkotte is now working in an elementary school health office, and loves it!

'72 Currently a team leader of a multidisciplinary team in the VNA, Roslyn Olaes Granger sees to the day-to-day operations of the team, coordinates team members, and serves on developmental committees as needed.

'74 Susan Boke Holland has been named Director of Student Support Services at Brandeis-Hillel School in Marin County. In addition to teaching and singing in the church choir, Rosalie Fraga McVay also tries to keep up with the activities of her husband, who is in two bagpipe bands, and her children.

'75 Hilary Fryer Jacobson is working hard on a master's degree in health care administration.

'76 Kathleen Elizabeth Snider is a professor of nursing in pediatrics at Los Angeles Valley College, and lectures throughout the U.S. preparing students for the N-CLEX (RN licensure exam). Her first nursing textbook was published in February. Joanne Monteith has specialized in school nursing and currently works for the LAUSD, serving two elementary schools in East Los Angeles.

'77 Terri Lewis Del Carlo teaches Lamaze classes, works part-time in labor and delivery, and also works with a midwife at Northern California's first free-standing birth center as an L&D nurse and perinatal educator.

'78 Working as the pastoral administrator for her church, Katherine Hunter does everything from installing computer systems to making sure the grass is cut. Karen Darling Ward reports that her consulting business is doing well, and that she had another, very successful, hip surgery. Working half-time as a Women's Health NP at Palo Alto Medical Foundation, Mary Maggio Rudolph has also started taking the "KIDS ON THE BLOCK" puppet show to third grade classes to teach children about disabilities and acceptance of diversity. Carlyn Graf Menth has been working in the O.R. at St. Jude Medical Center for seven years, and also works for Disneyland Health Services, assisting guests.

'79 Madeline Ianfolla-Tanza has relocated to Palm Desert, and is now a director/teacher of a preschool in Palm Springs while also involved in PTA and special education activities.

Ode to the Phonathon

Oh, Phonathon, you are so neat!
To talk to friends is such a treat.
When raising money for the Mount,
Ev'ry call is sure to count!

Friend to friend is the best way
To tell our story, experts say.
So, Phonathon, we hold you dear
As we "ring" in another year!

Please volunteer a few hours of your time for Alumnae Phonathons in 1996.
Call us at (310) 471-9898.

The Mount Associates

If expanding your horizons is one of your goals for 1996, then the Mount Associates may be for you!

As a benefit of membership in this active donor group, you are invited to attend two special events each year, designed to be both culturally and socially enriching. It's an exciting way to make new friends and experience the riches of Los Angeles.

Associates have been driven by their imaginations at the Peterson Automotive Museum... Their tastebuds have been tickled by the tantalizing cuisine of the finest restaurants in Los Angeles during the "Great Chefs" dinner series. . . And this June, Mount Associates will dance into the night to the sounds of Big Band music at the Doheny mansion. Mount Associates are also entitled to attend Da Camera Society concerts performed in historical settings throughout Los Angeles.

Alumnae 29 years old or younger may join the Mount Associates for an annual donation of $300; for members 30-34 years old, the cost is $600; and members 35 or older contribute $1,200 per year. Installment plans are available.

Joining the Mount Associates opens the door to new social adventures — and it's a great way to be a part of the Campaign for Mount St. Mary's College! For more information, contact Theresa Davis, Director of Annual Giving, at (310) 471-9807.

The Reading Room

"I highly recommend In a Gilded Cage: From Heiress to Duchess by Marian Fowler. It encompasses a period from 1914-1970, when several wealthy American women married into the British aristocracy, bringing much-needed cash to their husbands in exchange for the panache of a title. The book contains biographies of Consuelo Yznago (on whom Edith Wharton based her character Conchita Closson in The Buccaneers), Lily Hammersley, Consuelo Vanderbilt, Helena Zimmerman, and May Goelet. All became duchesses, only one married for love."

Gina Poli Hsiung '80

"The Pinsky edition of Dante's Inferno, which won the 1995 Los Angeles Times poetry award, makes the work quite accessible, and it's fun to scan the original Italian on facing pages. 'Lasciate ogne speranza, voi ch' intrate,' does not apply."

Dr. Arthur M. Cohen, Professor of Higher Education, UCLA

"Sarah Lawrence-Lightfoot's I've Known Rivers: Lives of Loss and Liberation is a powerful, inspiring book that tells the stories of six remarkable African-Americans, revealing the complex challenges and triumphs that have punctuated their lives. The writing is eloquent and candid, offering rich insights into the struggles that accompany success."
